LET'S FINISH THE JOB

Outstanding in the annals of sport in Wainwright has been the past winter of hockey. The quality of play, the lively public interest, and (with the exception of lack of seating) the comfort of spectators has set a new high for sport in this locality.

This has been made possible through the efforts of the committee which, despite seemingly unsurmountable obstacles, made plans for, and built the fine Peace Memorial Centre arena.

The accomplishment of this committee, the industry with which they worked, and the vision with which they were endowed has been a blessing to the town and the district, and the large number who provided them with financial support have seen that support used in a capable and efficient fashion.

However, the end is not yet. The arena, while it is a very great improvement, is not yet complete. Unexpected crowds which have attended functions during the past winter have shown that seating accommodation is entirely inadequate, and that further improvements to the "front end" are also highly desirable. Moreover, the whole building urgently requires a coating of some finishing material which will render it more permanent.

There can be no more fitting organization to carry on this work than the one which made such a splendid job of the original construction of the rink, and it is hoped that the P.M.C.S. which is now assured the financial support of the Town Council and the Chamber of Commerce, will take on itself a new lease of life, and finish the work which it has so capably started.

A meeting was held last week in an effort to revive the P.M.C.S., but the meeting was poorly attended, and as a result little could be accomplished. Another effort will be made on Friday of this week, when all interested are invited to attend a meeting to be held in the town hall, at 8 p.m. (Friday, April 28).

If you are interested in the completion of the arena, you are invited to attend this meeting, and take part in the revitalizing of the movement for arena improvement.

Noticing a shiny new car which was violating the parking rules, a Los Angeles policeman wrote out a ticket and placed it under the windshield wiper. In police court where he was summoned to pay off, he blushing admitted that he hadn't noticed it was his own car he'd tagged.

YOUR BRAKES AND STEERING

Motorists are reminded that starting May 1st, the Alberta Government through its Highway Traffic Branch will start to check all cars and trucks on the road in order to make certain that the steering devices are in proper order and that the brakes are operating effectively. This is a very creditable action on the part of the authorities, but we must not lose sight of the fact that while it makes sure that Joe Bush's brakes are tested and his steering checked, it also infers that we should have our own brakes and steering in such condition that when the inspectors turn up we will be allowed to continue on our own merry motoring way.

So, folks, it might be a good idea to have the brakes and steering put into shape "before" you meet up with the fellow who wants to knock about them. Your garage-man will provide you with an O.K. sticker when he has made the necessary checks and adjustments, and this same O.K. sticker will stand you in good stead when the boy in uniform comes along.

"I trust you found that novel interesting," the librarian remarked hopefully.

"No, not very," the patron replied, "but the letter someone left in it for a bookmark was a lulu."

JUST A HOUSEWIFE

Hero worship is one of the commonest viruses in American life. Many if not most people—secretly or openly, unconsciously or consciously—yearn to be Montgomery Clift, Dinah Shore, an All-American star, Sonja Henie, Howard Hughes, Lily Pons, or a four-star general.

But one of the chief troubles with this hero-worship business is its tacitly accepted implication that nobody who isn't famous or at least strikingly successful is a genuine success at all. That burns me up!

You can spot the notion everywhere—as when a woman contestant answers on a radio quiz this question: "And what is your occupation, Mrs. Smith?"

She will reply apologetically, "I'm just a housewife."

"Just a housewife" be damned! You should be proud in the greatest occupation of mankind—making a home, building a marriage, bearing and rearing children, giving America and the world new life and strength! Don't ever say "just a" again, Mrs. Smith!

That same silly notion as to what constitutes success in life afflicts millions of clerks, telephone operators, salesmen, stenographers, milkmen, truck drivers—people who have got that canker idea in their system that in order to be a success, you have to have your name in bright lights, in bronze letters on a building, or in gold paint on a door marked "Private."

Making the grade can be delightful, no doubt about it—but trying one's best is the real measure of human worth and success.

—Coronet.

SHELL GAME?

Joe Rutledge Says

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

QUESTION OF OWNERSHIP

William H. Wilkerson of Rome, Georgia, had an idea. When he told his friends about it they listened with the mild attention that friends give to an idea that appears to them slightly cock-eyed. They hinted that perhaps Wilkerson would get on better if he stuck to his job and didn't play around with wild-eyed notions. His acquaintances merely said he was "nuts" and let it go at that.

It looked as if they might have been right, for nobody but Wilkerson believed that his idea—to build a machine that would make its own nails and drive them itself—belonged anywhere but in a Heath Robinson cartoon. When he approached the research experts, they, so to speak, drove the last nail in the coffin of his hope. The patent office files, they assured him, were bulging with better ideas that had been moldering there years on end.

The Editor,
Star-Chronicle,
Wainwright, Alberta.
Dear Sir:

In the Town Topics column of the last issue of the Star-Chronicle there appeared a suggestion or at least an allusion to the advisability of constructing a Comfort or Rest Room in Wainwright. It was pointed out that although this would be an expensive project it was needed badly and would, no doubt, pay for itself throughout the years if not in cash then in comfort and convenience.

This summer when water is laid on the Canadian Legion Canteen will supply those facilities which are so badly needed and provide a rest room equal to any in any town of comparable size west of Winnipeg without cost to the public, and when one considers the added advantage of a coffee bar and refreshment counter together with the comfort of easy chairs, it would appear that the problem is solved. All that is needed is the support of the public.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

Canteen Committee,
Canadian Legion,
Chas. H. Horn.

The Editor,

Sir:

Shortly after seven last Friday evening, immediately in front of our home on Main Street, situated between the Public School and the Convent, my father's beautiful and valuable sixty-pound collie, (her breeding calculable in dollars and cents, but her real worth inestimable) which does not chase cars was struck and painfully, extensively, (and expensively) injured by a speeding, hit-and-run-faster-than-ever motorist. In this sparsely built-in block and one half, well within the twenty-five mile per hour speed limit, and moreover in the so-called safe, fifteen mile per hour school zone, there live two dogs, three aging persons, and eight young children. The rest of us pray that the Almighty may preserve our nimbleness and quick wittedness for a long time to come, as self protection against such discourteous, irresponsible drivers, blind to signs and oblivious to rules, constant threats to life.

I've Been Thinking

Guidance is A Function of Education
H. G. Tovey

On Tuesday, May 2, Wainwright will be visited by Mr. H. H. Aldridge, Director of Guidance, Department of Education. He will meet with teacher groups during the afternoon, and will address the Home and School Association in the High School in the evening, a meeting to which the general public is invited.

This coming visit brings to mind the tremendous need for more guidance in our schools. The subject has recently been given much publicity by reason of the increased interest shown in it by educational authorities. There is undoubtedly an increasing need for guidance among our young people because of the greater complexity of our industrial machine and greater demand for more highly specialized workers. As a result, universities have recently offered to give specialized training in this field. Our own Department of Education created the post of Director of Guidance in 1944 for the first time. The larger cities now have supervisors of guidance within their school systems. At least one school division in the province employs a guidance director. Our Department of Health has organized psychiatric clinics that tour the Province and give special study to mal-adjusted persons.

The need for guidance is well illustrated by my personal experience. Somewhere during my later High School period I began to think seriously of my life work. I knew practically nothing about my natural aptitudes and about as little about my interests. Having been raised in the isolation of a farm—and farms were much more isolated then than now—and having parents whose knowledge and experiences extended only a short way beyond their farm life, I had little opportunity to know about other occupations and their requirements. I finally decided that I wanted more education and so went off to finish High School and then to university. There I got even less advice on my problems than I had received at earlier stages. It was left to me to learn by the costly trial and error method. I tried natural sciences; then switched to agriculture; and ended up specializing in economics. I dabbled in commerce and journalism. I certainly got a liberal education, but had to put in an extra year as a result in order to get my degree. A year later, to my great surprise, I was in education, and none too well equipped because of lack of foresight and specific preparation.

One very good friend failed to find his place among engineering students; switched to agriculture; and is now a vice-president of our largest life insurance company. I know teachers who were trained as lawyers and engineers. The world is full of people who have not found their proper niche in life. Square pegs in round holes. And all disappointed.

Something can be done in a scientific way to determine aptitudes and interests and thus provide much needed direction for our young people. To yet our society has little confidence in such methods. But the loss that our society suffers through inefficiency in mental capacity is vast, resulting directly from this lack of guidance is appalling. Anyway, a beginning has been made to remedy the defect. Society will eventually become convinced of

Dist. Home Economist

Shelia M. Forrester, Ryley.

Dear Homeowners:
I have just returned from the Conference of District Home Economists which was held at the School of Agriculture at Olds. We had our director, Nutrition Specialist and Home Designing Specialist present with us.

Each one has outlined their service to you and to us. We also found time to discover that your problems are the same as those in all other parts of the province and we are beginning to realize just what a wonderful province this is. Some of our Home Economists are from Saskatchewan and Manitoba so we even got a little more idea of work done in other places. The winter students had just left the school for their homes to begin spring work and the staff was still around so we found out a little more about the winter courses at the College. If any young person would be interested in this course be sure to write to the Principal of the School at Vermilion. Your applications should be in early in the summer, so you will not be disappointed. If you are in doubt whereas the number of courses you must take write for a calendar. There are 3 year and 2 in. courses in Agriculture and Home Economics. The girls take Household Management, Home Nursing, Sewing, Handicraft and Cooking in addition to some other work and work in Horticulture, Poultry and Dairying.

Certainly no other course could give so much practical work for a farm girl and a homemaker.
For the older ladies in the district and those not so old I want to remind you of Farm Women's Week. You will be hearing more of this at a later date but get your applications in soon. This is being held at Vermilion July 17-23 and as soon as we know more of the progress I will try to write you up to date. If you have a young child whom you do not wish to leave at home the school will have someone to look after her. Be sure and let us know if you plan to bring children as we must arrange to have someone there. Please feel free to write and enquire whether you plan to attend or not.

Profit With Good Strong Litters

The aim in hog raising should be to raise at least eight strong pigs in each litter. Much can be done by proper management to reduce accidental death losses at birth, says C. G. Hickman, Division of Animal Husbandry, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Sows should be attended at farrowing time in case of trouble and as the pigs are born they should be put in a warm place. This will also prevent them from being rolled on or trampled by the excited sow. When farrowing is completed the pigs are returned to the sow. By massaging the udder the sow will be induced to lie on her side and expose her udder. The pigs can then be helped to find the teats and they will soon learn to suck by themselves.

The farrowing pen should be 10 feet x 12 feet in size and the partitions should be of a solid construction to prevent drafts. A concrete floor is too cold for young pigs, and the floor in the farrowing pens can be covered with 1-inch x 12-inch planing. To reduce to a minimum losses by trampling, wooden or preferably iron pipe guard rails may be constructed about ten inches from all walls and fourteen inches from the floor. This provides a well protected area for the young litter around the pen walls.

For farrowing during cold weather an electric pig incuber is desirable. A commercial type is available or a suitable homemade brooder can be built by nailing securely 3-inch x 12-inch x 5 foot planks diagonally across a back corner of the pen so that they extend from about a foot from the top of the pen to ten inches from the floor. A heat-lamp or an ordinary 100-watt light bulb hung in the top of this triangular area, properly insulated and protected from moisture, will provide sufficient heat for the pigs even in severely cold weather. Ventilation can be regulated by opening loose planking at various widths apart across the top of the brooder.

Sow's milk is naturally low in iron content, and this cannot be corrected through her ration. Therefore, to prevent anaemia it has become standard practice to give each pig before they are three days old, as much reduced iron as is approximately equal in volume to an aspirin tablet, and two additional doses at weekly intervals. If the pigs are large and strong this amount will not choke them. At the time the pigs receive their iron it is advantageous to cut out their "needle" teeth with a pair of cotton-clip pliers. This practice prevents any injury these very sharp teeth may cause to the sow's udder and to the pigs themselves when fighting.

Your Future Hangs On The Dairy Cow

The Department of Agriculture, in its desire to promote a better use of food as well as a better use of land, is resuming through its Consumers' Section and other departmental agencies, former peace-time activities in equipping Canadian people better acquainted with home produced foods.

During the next two months, dairy products, which logically form a part of a national program of conservation from soils to meat—will be featured throughout the country. Here are a few facts which any producer or consumer should keep in mind:

(1) Dairy products are basic products in any health program, in any daily diet, they command priority whether it be for children or adults.

(2) Dairy industry in Canada is perhaps the best guarantee of stability for the large majority of our farming population—the cow is the home market for grasses and grasses are a "must" in soil conservation.

(3) Canadians are inclined to take for granted the abundance of our dairy products and use them loosely whereas we should take advantage of the abundant supplies to bring our diet into a better balance and improve our standard of living.

(4) For the same amount of money, the consumer cannot get the same essentials from other foods as those supplied by dairy products—calories in butter and protein in milk are cheaper than in most other farm products.

(5) Butter itself takes almost half of our milk production and constitutes one of the best channels—in some cases the only channel—through which milk produced from small farms located far from consuming centres can be marketed.

(6) Cheese is a high protein food, the consumption of which could be increased if our population had a better knowledge of this product—our average consumption is 4 or 5 pounds a year whereas it is between 15 and 20 pounds in such countries as Denmark and Switzerland.

There are only a few among many fostering a movement for a more thorough knowledge of dairy products on the part of the consumer as well as of the producers themselves.

WORLD OF WHEAT

$1.40 WHEAT
The Government announces that the interim payment for wheat, beginning August 1st next, will be 1.40 a bushel, shared with the present price of $1.75.

From August 1st next wheat will be sold under the terms of the International Wheat Agreement, of which the maximum price will be $1.92 in Canadian funds basis 1 Northern Port William, and a minimum of 1.54 at which price importing countries have agreed to purchase the bulk of our Canadian wheat. (Sale price today is 1.92.)

At first glance there would seem to be no reason why the Government should not set the initial price at almost full minimum of $1.54. One can only conclude, therefore, that by making the initial price 14 cents lower than the Agreement's floor price the Government of Canada does not have full when fighting.

Remembering that sows differ in their ability to produce and raise satisfactory litters, and that the management practices summarised above reduce pre-weaning mortality and increase pre-weaning performance, the farmer who uses this knowledge will raise vigorous and profitable litters.

confidence in the International Wheat Agreement. The Government is most probably right for while many people think that International Wheat Agreement assures the sale of Canada's wheat at a minimum price of $1.54, this actually is not so, for the Agreement contains certain escape clauses that importing countries can take advantage of. This is the penalty that has to be paid, when Governments take over wheat marketing, for Governments must play safe and run no risk of losses, because voters who are not farmers outnumber by four to one the farmer voters.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS
The United States Department of Agriculture estimates the winter wheat production for 1950 at 102,000,000 bushels, as of April 1st, compared to last year's production of 90,648,000 bushels and the ten year average of 75,821,000 bushels.

Argentina's corn crop is now estimated at not more than 80,000,000 bushels, compared with the average production of 200,000,000 bushels. The crop failure is reflecting on the market where corn for feeding purposes is selling at $2.64 a bushel in American compared to $2.40 a bushel in Canada. Current buying price of $1.21 per bushel. Czechoslovakia, according to recent reports, will receive 15 million bushels of wheat from Russia under a new trade agreement.

Argentine Flour
Argentine consumers will no longer be able to purchase flour at subsidised prices. However a subsidy on flour of all grades used by bakeries for bread and biscuits will be continued and the retail price for bread will be maintained at the equivalent of 9 to 11 cents a pound.

U.S. Meat Production
The United States Department of Agriculture forecasts a total meat production of 22.5 billion pounds during 1950, a six per cent increase over 1949. The estimates are based on a 19 per cent increase in last fall's pig crop and a three per cent increase in cattle numbers on farms at January 1, 1950.

Swedish Grain
It is reported that Sweden is not only self-sufficient in bread grains but also has an exportable surplus. The Swedish Grain Corporation has contracted to ship an initial 100 thousand metric tons to Western Germany. This is the first large shipment of grain from Sweden.

Time Out FOR Laughs

"Johnny," said his mother, "someone has taken a big piece of gingerbread out of the pantry."
Johnny blushed guiltily.
"Oh, Johnny, I don't think you had it in you."
"It isn't all," replied little Johnny. "Part of it is EASY."

They were discussing a friend.
"Brown is a good fellow, really," said one, "but he treats his wife miserably."
"What do you mean?" the other asked. "Does he beat her?"
"No, no. He just refuses to argue with her."

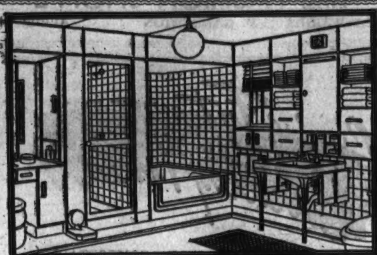

"The weaker sex is the stronger sex because of the weakness of the stronger sex for the weaker sex."

Lord Oxford used to tell of a candid being asked bluntly: "How would you tell a bad egg?"
And the reply: "If I had anything to tell a bad egg I would break it gently."

What can be done in our schools to give guidance will depend largely on the training and interest of at least one member of the staff and the time at his disposal to devote to the task. It requires much time as the work must, to a great extent, be with individuals rather than classes. There is now available many quite reliable tests. Intelligence tests reveal the natural ability of students to learn. There are mechanical aptitude tests; clerical aptitude tests; etc. Each of these requires about an hour of the teacher's time to administer.

Through the Departmental Director of Guidance schools are being continually supplied with information relating to occupations. Your school has printed pamphlets on perhaps twenty common trades and professions. Further information on other occupations may be obtained for those that are interested.

The psychiatric clinics are doing splendid work. They consist of a medical doctor, specially-trained, a nurse and at least one assistant. They study individual cases of mal-adjustment and advise parents and teachers as to their proper care. Such individuals are now treated as diseased and are therefore fit subjects for remedial psychiatric treatment. Teachers, especially, have profited by the assistance thus received. A proper psychiatric diagnosis at the right time can save much suffering and even a life just as surely as can medical or surgical treatment.

CANCER IS THE MOST CURABLE OF ALL MAJOR CAUSES OF DEATH... IF DETECTED EARLY!

SURGERY X-RAY RADIUM

THE ONLY ACCEPTED TREATMENTS FOR CANCER

(THE 6th IN A SERIES DEALING WITH CANCER)

EMPHASIS must be placed on the fact that surgery, X-ray and Radium are at present the only accepted treatments for cancer. Any attempt to treat cancer by unrecognized or "quack" methods can only result in postponing effective treatment until it is too late. It is a waste of money, but worse than that, it is a waste of time.

SURGERY—Recent advances in surgery are making it possible to treat successfully cases of cancer of the lung, stomach, and pancreas. Such new drugs as penicillin and the sulfonamide drugs have greatly lessened the danger of infection.

X-RAY AND RADIUM—X-ray and Radium have been used with success in treating and effecting cures in certain types of cancer. It is observed that cancer cells are more susceptible to radiation than normal resting cells and destruction of the outflow cancer cells is effected without injury to healthy tissue. The effectiveness of these 3 methods of treatment depends upon finding the growth before cells have scattered to lodge in other parts of the body.

The importance, therefore, of early recognition and treatment cannot be over emphasized.

EARLY RECOGNITION and treatment SAVES LIVES

THE WEEK AT OTTAWA

by the Canadian Press

Two Irishmen met in Ottawa last week and, incredibly as it may seem, never once referred to the thorny question of Irish partition.

Perhaps the occasion was too formal. Viscount Alexander, Canada's governor-general and a native of Northern Ireland, received Sean Murphy as an ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Ireland to Canada, and accepted from him a letter of credence.

Mr. Murphy was driven to Government House and presented to the governor-general in his study by Howard Measures, chief of protocol for the external affairs department.

After the two men had shaken hands Lord Alexander expressed pleasure on behalf of the King at receiving the letter of credence.

Ireland, no longer Eire, changed the status of its envoy here from high commissioner to ambassador. In keeping with the ending of its ties to the British crown, but Canada's high commissioner to Dublin, Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, has not yet had his title changed.

So far as Canada is concerned, high commissioners have the same standing as ambassadors, but the Irish ambassador rank higher.

Sailor's Warning
Britain's First Sea Lord had some frank words to say about Russia's fighting strength during a recent three-day visit to Ottawa.

White-haired, 62-year-old Lord Fraser of North Cape told a press conference that in another five years Russia may develop a powerful pack of submarines, speedier than the underwater craft the Russians have at present.

For that reason, he said, the democracies must keep working out new anti-submarine defenses, such as radar and the development of speedy vessels capable of seeking out and destroying subs.

"We've got to keep up the work," Lord Fraser said. "The danger is not so much now as in the future."

Lord Fraser estimated that Russia now has about 200 submarines, but said he did not believe they exceeded a speed of 18 knots an hour. However, he was of the opinion that in another five years the maximum speeds might be advanced to 25 knots.

On other aspects of naval activity, the First Sea Lord said:

1. Britain, Canada and the United States are standardizing their naval equipment so much as to make it possible to interchange ships.

2. Britain has new aircraft under manufacture for use on carriers. "Can ada likely will follow us."

3. The battleship still has a secure place in future warfare. It will not be discarded.

Compliments Canadians

Lord Fraser complimented Canada on a "fine navy" which "had always given Britain 'good service, especially in wartime.'"

"Our country is good at improvising," he said, recalling that during the war Canadian government officials had said to the United Kingdom:

"Don't worry about the dollar. Tell us what you want and we will do it."

He remarked that Britons had been "rather frightened" when they heard of Canadian bakers and grocers turning their hand to building cobblestones.

But Canada proved that when it set its mind to a project, the project is carried through successfully.

New Cars For Canadians
Canadians are buying three times as many new automobiles as they did a year ago and they are paying for more than one-quarter of them on the installment plan.

The Bureau of Statistics reported that 23,810 new passenger cars were sold in Canada during February compared with 8,836 in the same month a year ago. Value was $48,176,922, as against $17,466,515.

Of these 6,197 cars were financed the amount of $2,119,171 as compared with 2,047 financed for $2,818,586 in February, 1949.

Financing of used cars was also up this month, 5,977 being bought for $4,468,384 as compared with 5,544 units financed for $3,671,504 in February, 1949.

Dominion Defences
Should Canada make an early start in training civil defence squads to cope with air raids in the event of a new war?

That question is reported to be a top level debating point in defence circles. Maj.-Gen. P. F. Worthington, co-ordinator of civil defence at defence headquarters, is believed to be pressing for a swift start on training civilians for such an emergency.

Canada, he thinks, may have little time to waste. The air raid squads should take their place with the reserve units of the three forces. Organization of groups to fight fire, clear streets, handle crowds and care for wounded should be launched now.

On the other hand, Defence Minister Cliston is said to hold the view that it would be unwise to train large numbers of people to set a civil defence or organization in motion at the present time.

His fear is that after a couple of years such an organization would begin to wither away from lack of interest. The organization should come in time, he feels, but like the build-up of the forces, it is a matter of timing, of judging when they may be needed.

Sew and So Club
The Sew and So Club members met on April 20 for their meeting at the home of Miss R. Bacon. "Springtime in the Rockies" was the opening song.

Mrs. P. Bacon supplied the program and 13 members answered the roll call with a good characteristic of your neighbors.

The minutes were declared adopted as read. Accounts resulting from the reduction of expenses were dealt with.

The motion by P. Bacon that we donate $25.00 to the Cancer Fund was seconded by E. Willerton. Carried.

An interesting contest followed in which questions were answered by words beginning with "car." It was won by C. Taylor.

P. Laycock won the raffle.
In closing the hymn "Jesus Hides in Me" was sung and E. Willerton moved the meeting adjourn.

The members and friends then enjoyed a delicious lunch served by the hostess, Miss Bacon, and assisted by Mrs. M. Dalton and Mrs. P. Bacon.

Most people don't have much trouble counting to one. Most people that is, with the exception of baseball players. A previous column following a mid-winter meeting of baseball's rule-makers outlined the most drastic rule change made—the balk rule. The rule is simple enough. All it says is that with a man on base the pitcher now must come to a full stop for one second before pitching the ball.

Previously the rule only said the pitcher must stop before throwing—nothing was said about periods of time. Just that "one-second" designation has caused a great deal of bewilderment and disruption to date in 1949. It appears that most pitchers can't count to one.

Takes, for example, the Pacific Coast League which opened long ahead of the other circuits. In the first week alone 44 balks were called. And when a balk is called the runner automatically advances one base. So that's 44 free bases handed out by pitchers in that one week.

To most fans the problem seems easy enough to solve. Why doesn't the pitcher just rectify to himself something like, "one, one thousand," or "one, two" and fire away safely.

Hard in Tight Spots
It's easy to say. But the major leagues are loaded with rookies—and a lot of veterans—who panic easily when the pressure of men on base faces them.

Imagine the score tied 1-1 in the last half of the ninth. Two men are out and the count is 3-3 on the batter with a runner on third. The pitcher, knowing his next move may decide the fate of the game, watches the runner, watches for his pitching sign from the catcher, wraps his fingers for the pitch and starts his stretch as fans and opposing players alike rise him.

At this point he must remember to stop for one full second before delivering. It can't be easy.

Then there's the factor of the umpire. The man in blue may not agree at the point with the pitcher on just how long a second is and call a balk. Or he may miss a balk by one team right after he called one against the other club. That would bring a long and loud yelp from the balking team.

The new rule affected the major leagues so much in spring training that one manager—Leo Durocher, of the New York Giants—said he would slap a $10 fine on each hurler committing the offence.

It now appears as though the same men who instituted the rule must get together again and clarify it or a lot of teams will suffer greatly once the leagues get well into the schedule grind.

There's another bad thing that may result from the pitchers not being able to distinguish that one second. With so many players getting extra bases through balks we might be seeing a lot fewer stolen bases and sacrifices for the simple reason that it would not be worth chasing the plays.

Sugar is not only for sweetening. It helps in making soap transparent.

Kitchen ... Kinks

FOODS FOR THE FAMILY

Homemakers who aim to serve satisfying, well balanced meals to their families are always pleased to find any thing which may be of help in solving their daily problems.

The booklet, "Foods for the Family" which has recently been revised by the home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, is packed full of good hints on buying, storing and cooking various foods as well as a guide to menu planning.

Here are a few of the cooking hints included:

MILK: In heating milk, use very low heat, do not boil—use a double boiler, if possible. If a scum forms when scalding milk, do not discard it since it contains valuable milk solids. To prevent milk from sticking during heating, rinse pan with cold water or lightly grease the bottom of the pan.

Cheese: Cook cheese at a low temperature. High temperature toughens proteins and therefore makes cheese less easily digested. When making cheese sauce, add cheese at the last and cook only until melted.

Any uncooked mixture of cheese, eggs and milk to be cooked in the oven, should be oven-poached, that is, placed in a pan of hot water. In a modern kitchen, if only sufficient time to thorough. Scalloped or other cheese dishes made with cooked foods should be lightly heat the mixture.

FRUIT: Fruit should be cooked slowly, either simmered, steamed or baked in a small quantity of water. Less sugar will be required, the fruit will be more tender and the flavour better if the sugar is added after the fruit is cooked. Dried fruits should be washed thoroughly before cooking. Cereals and Flour: Cereals should be well cooked, to develop flavour and make them easily digested. To avoid lumping, sprinkle the cereal gradually into boiling, salted water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook over direct heat a few minutes then finish over hot water.

To use all-purpose flour in place of pastry flour, allow two tablespoons less per cup.

The following amounts of starches and flours have the same thickening power: 1 tablespoon cornstarch; 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour; 1 tablespoon plus 1/4 teaspoon potato or rice flour or wheat starch.

Meat and Poultry: Meat and poultry are more tender and juicy and shrink less if cooked at low temperature. Roast meat and poultry in a slow to moderate oven, uncovered, without the addition of water. Less tender cuts need long slow cooking in moist heat (pot roasting, braising, stewing) to make them tender.

Old Prospector Isn't Excited Over New Find

Cranberry Portage, Man.—The old saw "gold is where you find it" is applied fittingly by Jack Fisher who in 1914 was a prospector, and he's still a prospector.

Old die-hards of the California-Klon die gold-rush days fall back on the saying when they planned for gold and didn't find it. They said if there was an ace in the deck for them, it would come, and nothing they could do—except work—would hurry it.

Jack, hardened to the "wait-and-see" game, says that radio-active ore he discovered last summer near this town, 25 miles southeast of Pin Flon, might lead to the discovery of uranium. The assay report showed "low grade," but the samples were taken quickly and geologists urged Jack to explore further.

He hopes, however, that if his "find" is big it will be put to its best use in serving mankind.

"There's nothing to get excited about Jack says. "I've been prospecting too many years to become excited any more—I already have a big company interested, and I am willing to show them where to look and let them handle it from there on."

A Somewhat Man, and Jack to Canada before the First World War and worked as a cowhand in Alberta "in the days when the foothills swarmed with cattle."

He joined the Canadian Army and saw service at Ypres. Discharged, he became a forest ranger in British Columbia. Once the R.C.M.P. asked him to guide them on a chase into the Flat-head country, towards the United States border, on the trail of outlaws who held up a Canadian Pacific Railway train near Centennial, B.C.

As Jack recalls it, a gang led by two men named Bassoff and Aloft, held up the express train, and instead of several thousand dollars in payroll money, gathered "some small change and the conductor's gold watch." Aloft was caught in the U.S. when he tried to pawn the watch and Bassoff was arrested later.

Jack has been in the Cranberry Portage area since 1925, coming on a prospecting trip for a company. Later he set out on his own and has been around

NOW THEY TALK OF BANANA RUM

VANCOUVER—Hoy, bartender, give me another rum.

"Don't laugh! Malcolm L. Gossling of Burnaby, a director of the oldest liquor firm on that sunny Isle, says banana rum may hit the top of the distiller's hit parade.

"It's drunk in the West Indies," he said. "Apparently," said Mr. Gossling with some surprise, "no one ever attempted to make and sell it before."

Diesel engines are on the increase on Canadian railroads.

since. He has found everything from gravel—which was used for the Pin Flon. The Pin highway—to the recent discovery of radio-active ore.

Expect Rigid Enforcement Of Traffic Laws

AUTOMOBILES are becoming more essential and indispensable to the business of making a living. They are becoming more numerous and, because of their power and speed potentialities, more dangerous.

Without rigid rules, traffic would become chaotic and the accident toll gigantic. It is more necessary than ever that all rules be rigidly enforced.

The responsible motorist will observe the rules because he respects the rights of other motorists and knows that he must operate his car in an orderly manner.

Old Timers Ass'n Talks Museum

Mr. P. H. Perry, of the Chauvin Old Timers' Association informed us on Wednesday that that organization has been offered a building for use as a museum, should they desire to make a collection of interesting exhibits relating to old times in the district, or items of interest from anywhere else.

Such a venture should prove interesting, and make a valuable addition to the district's features of interest. The Old Timers' Association would like to take up the kind offer made to them, but before they do, and go to any expense in preparing the building, they would like to hear from anyone there will be a sufficient number of exhibits available. These exhibits could include a wide variety of items, such as photographs, articles used in the old days as spinning wheels, Indian relics of any kind, and the hundred and one items that would serve to refresh memories of the old days, or excite interest or curiosity.

It would be appreciated if anyone who has something they think would be suitable would contact Mr. Perry or some other official of the Association and let them know, so that further plans may be made, if they are found feasible.

HOW ABOUT A LITTLE TENNIS THIS SUMMER, FOLKS?

We have been hearing so much tennis enthusiasm in Edmonton to urge that efforts be made to revive interest in inter-town competition for the challenge cup which is now held by the Edmonton club. The club will gladly accept any challenge and will play where ever it is convenient.

A well organized league would provide a good summer of fun. Anyone interested please get in touch with G. P. Phillips, Edmonton.

South Notes

We firmly believe that Spring has come to the prairies. What if we do have snow flurries thrown in? Crocus buds and pussy willows and green grass are all putting in their heads. The roads need attention badly, they are just passable.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives of Mr. George McEwen who passed away last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Barch and daughter plan to leave soon for their new home in Dawson Creek, B.C.

Those celebrating birthdays in April are Mr. J. Skinner, J. Skinner and Mrs. Alice Skinner. The latter has attained the grand age of 94 years and is in fair health at present. Congratulations to all we mentioned and those we missed mentioning too.

Several in our district have severe colds at present.

Dewey Hager is the first we have heard of in our community to be working on the land. Weather conditions have made it quite a lot later than last year. Two years ago today the snow banks were pretty high in places and the water plenty deep in others.

LLOYDMINSTER FARM GIRLS CAMP

Girls between the ages of 13 and 15 are reminded that the Seventh Annual Farm Girls' Camp will be held during the Lloydminster Exhibition this year. Although it seems a long way off it is time to be thinking of it and working on the projects.

This camp offers a splendid opportunity for girls to live, learn and work together. Some thirty girls attended in 1949 and it is hoped that we have a larger attendance this year. Instructors from the University of Saskatchewan will be present and at all times the girls are under the supervision of a camp matron. Girls may enter in teams of three, but this is not at all necessary. Do not feel that you have to know someone in camp before you attend, plan to come and get acquainted. Girls who have previously attended such camps should try to let others know about it.

The fee to attend camp is only one dollar per girl and this includes three excellent meals per day.

Prizes are given for the best sewing and baking, judging of sewing and baking, general camp proficiency. One girl will be chosen from camp enrollment to attend Youth Training School.

The project for 1950 includes a girls' skirt in the sewing class, and butter tarts in the baking class. Girls who plan to attend camp should begin on the projects soon in order to have sufficient practice in the baking and the sewing completed. Further information regarding the project may be obtained from G. K. Ross, Secretary, Lloydminster Exhibition Association. In 1949 a preparatory class for Farm Girls Camp was held and proved very helpful. Watch your local papers for more word of this for 1950.

The Camp committee for this year includes:

Mrs. H. J. Graham, Lloydminster
Mrs. W. T. Hill, Lloydminster
Miss Connie Knowlson, Lone Rock
Camp Matron—Mrs. Stan Olsen, Lone Rock.

CLIFFE

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnston, Pearl Wilson and Jean Graham motored to Saskatoon Saturday returning the same day.

We welcome Mr. and Mrs. Brown back to the farm.

Henry Budd returned home from Caronport Conference. David Budd remained at Caronport where he accepted a position.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Geres, and Agnes were visitors to Saskatoon Friday.

The Graham boys have been busy saving logs for lumber at the old "Mill Farm".

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. George Duffie on the birth of a son, Ian in Lloydminster Hospital, a brother for Shirley and Joan.

Miss Inobel Bailey has returned home from attending university in Saskatoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham of Marsden have returned home after being patients in the local hospital, hope they will soon be quite well again.

Miss Grace Watson of the Artland district was a patient in the local hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Matheson returned home after spending the winter in the States and Vancouver Island.

Full security—food, shelter, clothing, medical attention, etc.—is available to any Canadian. Every life provides it.

PARADISE VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deaville and Donald arrived back on Saturday after spending the winter in Edmonton. Miss Grace Siddons had to be rushed into the hospital at Lloydminster for an operation.

Cliff to hear that Mrs. Art McLean is recovering nicely after her operation which she underwent recently.

Mr. Allan Storms who has been working at Redwater in the oilfields during the winter months arrived back home to work on the farm for the summer months.

Mrs. Robert Fair Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Fair, Gail, Margaret and Sandra were visiting with friends and relatives in Paradise Valley on Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Fair and family have been living in Vancouver for the past few years but Robert is glad to get back to the prairie once again.

Mr. D. B. Baxter left on Thursday night for a visit to his old home at Westville, Nova Scotia, to visit his aged mother who we regret to hear is in poor health. It is quite a few years since Barkey left the shores of the Atlantic and no doubt will see a lot of changes in the old town.

With the lifting of the ban on our highways trucks, tractors and trailers are again bustling around. We wish the ban on the highways and gates were still in effect as last Friday's windstorm moved a lot of P.V. around. Much of it finally came to rest on the recent housecleaning efforts of the poor housewife.

Miss Angelina Flick of North Battleford has accepted a position with Mrs. A. Acaster.

FRAM

Barbara McCormick returned to Lloydminster after spending a few days at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Graham are visiting at the former's parental home. Geo. will remain on the farm during the seeding season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Howard and Thelma motored to Saskatoon Friday to bring Elaine home, returning the same day. "Edie Higgins" visited here to a trip to Saskatoon, coming home with a pocket full of bargains.

C.G.T. VALLEY MAIDS

The Paradise Valley Maids C.G.T. met at the home of Mickey Galt for their regular meeting on Wednesday, April 19th. Audrey called the meeting to order by singing. Mrs. Gunn gave the devotional. Mary Baxter gave a demonstration on "Your Neckline". Patterns were selected for stuffed animals and there was a lesson on dome fasteners. Some plans were made for Achievement Day and tea which will be held on May 6th. A very delicious lunch was served by Mickey, Mariene and a vote of thanks to Mrs. Clay and Mickey.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Mildred McNealey who passed away in the Royal Alexander Hospital on April 23.

A loving mother, so gentle and kind. What a wonderful memory was left behind.

Long days, long nights she bore her pain. To wait for cure but all in vain.

Till God himself knew what was best. He took her home and gave her rest. Ever remembered and sadly missed by her loving daughter.

EGGS NO LONGER LARGER ORPHANS FOR NORWEGIANS

OSLO—Within the space of three months, the reaction of a Norwegian family on signing bacon and eggs for breakfast or pork chops for dinner has changed from a gasped, "how did you manage it?" to a sigh of "what again?"

Eggs and pork, for years precious items on the food ration list, have overnight become so plentiful that they are today the chief targets for radio jokesters, music hall comedians and newspaper cartoonists.

Norwegian newspapers daily advise their subscribers to consume larger quantities of eggs and pork. At the bottom of every story are slogans that read: "Why not try an egg for your supper?" "There is no nicer dish than an omelet for lunch." "Start the day well with an egg for breakfast."

For a woman's page editor to suggest a recipe for eggless chocolate cake now would be comparable to high treason.

Egg prices have been reduced twice in the last two months until they retail today at 42 cents a dozen. But still stores are overstocked and warehouses overflowing.

The egg marketing board had been gathering the surplus eggs for cold storage against a shortage but within weeks the board cried "uncle"—they could take no more.

Taken By Surprise

This era of eggs-a-plenty caught the Norwegian housewife, as well as official statisticians, by surprise. As recently as last Christmas, housewives were in despair because it was impossible to get enough eggs to bake cakes. For four years, they were on strict ration. Sometimes many months would go by without any egg ration at all, and it was front-page news when the government declared an egg dividend of five eggs per person.

Then one day—nobody remembers exactly when—the story goes that a housewife in a nervous whisper asked her grocer if he couldn't manage a few eggs under the counter. And when he replied that he would be grateful if she could take home several kilograms (about twenty eggs to the kilogram) of eggs, she fainted.

Much the same thing happened with fat pork.

Norwegians are very fond of pork but the average family hasn't seen much of it on the dinner table for several years. Since the beginning of the year, there has been a glut of it. Butcher shops are bulging with pork in all forms—joints, chops, sausages, bacon, staid or smoked and various kinds of ham.

All other meats are still rationed. The result of this is that fish has returned to an honored place on the Norwegian menu. For years, Norwegians ate practically nothing but fish or whale meat, and the Norwegians regard for seafood hit ocean bottom a long time ago. Today, they will go into near-ecstasy over a piece of boiled cod or halibut, or even the humble herring. But whatever is on the table, the average Norwegian would be grateful if he could wash it down with a good cup of coffee. Coffee is as difficult to obtain as eggs were three months ago.

Funeral Held For George McEwen

Westminster Church was crowded on Wednesday last, when the friends and neighbors, joined the relatives of George William McEwen in paying their last respects.

George was a highly respected citizen of the district, and his passing will be keenly felt by all who knew him.

Rev. H. Grove handled the services and Mrs. A. E. Keith officiated at the organ. During the service she rendered "The Old Rugged Cross" as a solo.

Many and beautiful were the floral tributes which were arrayed around the casket of the deceased.

Funeral services were held at George's home, where the friends and neighbors gathered to pay their last respects.

Following the ceremony at Chauvin the remains were taken to the Provost cemetery where interment took place. Mrs. McEwen, who was in the United States at the time of her husband's death managed to get to Chauvin in time for the funeral service.

NEWS SPOTLIGHT

Britishers can't look forward to any let-up of austerity in the coming year. That was the gist of Sir Stafford Cripps' budget address presented to the House of Commons last week.

The stern caretaker of Britain's pocketbook aimed his budget speech at convincing the public that to avoid inflation and unemployment, austerity must continue and the freeze on wages, prices and profits be maintained.

The only relief the chancellor of the exchequer had to offer Britons was some minor income-tax concessions in the lower income brackets. The concessions put savings up to $11.50

($14.95) a year in the pockets of the middle classes, some of whom voted Labor hopes to win at the next general election.

Lower wage groups, clamoring for wage increases, received benefits on a scale which, although they stand to gain little, the increased allowances may encourage more overtime work.

In his latest budget speech, Cripps also made these announcements:

1. The gasoline tax will go up about 5d (about 10 cents), making the selling price 2s (45 cents) a gallon, but the ration will be increased to allow for 180 miles driving a month—double the present ration.

2. The price of beer, 5d. A glass remained, but the strength will be increased 10 per cent—up to half pre-war potency.

3. A purchase tax of 25 1/2 per cent will be levied on commercial vehicles. The purchase tax on high-priced cars will be reduced from 56 3/4 to 33 1/2 per cent.

4. The housing program will be restored to 250,000 houses a year from the 185,000 to which it was cut last year amid complaints from all quarters.

5. No further increases in the cost of the national health service will be permitted and food subsidies will be frozen at £410,000,000 a year.

The conservatives started their attack on Cripps' budget with cries of uncontrolled government spending and predictions of a sombre financial outlook for the United Kingdom.

Some criticism was also reported from inside Labor's ranks. Following a Labor Party caucus, it was learned that some members thought the government should have done more to bring down living costs and appease the trade unionists' demands for wage boosts.

Aid To Curb Doukhobors
Canada will try to end for good the church burning, nude parading activities of west coast Doukhobors.

After conferring in Ottawa with Justice Minister Garson, Attorney-General Gordon Wisner of British Columbia announced formation of a special dominion-provincial committee of experts to study the problem.

His announcement followed a day of fresh violence in which homes were put to the torch in the 10-shack Doukhobor settlement of Krestova, C. Following his announcement more fires were set.

The special committee—composed of scientists, penologists, educationalists and government officials—was formed, Mr. Wisner said, because solution to the problem must go deeper than punishment of the offenders.

One of the solutions that has been suggested is the mass deportation of the 1,000-member Sons of Freedom sect blamed for the violence.

Peace Through Power
President Truman believes there will be no third world war as long as the United States retains leadership and strength.

On visits to Fort Benning, Ga., and Eglin Air Base, Fla., the president watched a spectacular display of U.S. ground and air power. Also looking on as the U.S. bared some of its armed might was Defence Minister Claxton of Canada.

Truman said: "I believe in preparedness to prevent hostilities in the world at large."

Claxton described what he saw as "impressive evidence of the immense strength of the United States," and added that the strength was "the greatest guarantee of peace in the world today."

Waters On Rampage
Still reeling from the initial onslaught of the spring flood season, Manitobans rolled up their sleeves at the week-end preparing to battle the ragging Red River.

As waters from lesser rivers and streams in the southern portions of the province receded after taking on life, driving people from their homes and doing untold damage, the Red was reaching flood levels at Pembina, N.D., just across the border from Emerson, Man.

Emerson was hardest hit of the southern towns in the initial floods. At Winnipeg and Belkirk the rivers flexed their muscles, and nine miles north of Belkirk the rich farm lands of straw Point were under water as far as the eye could see.

Everyone knows that Dominion Textile Company Limited sells fine cotton products.

But we buy things too. We're customers of other Canadians right across the country.

As a company we purchase lumber, paper, corn and potato starches, chemicals, transportation services and a hundred and one other items from different parts of Canada.

And the 12,500 employees in our plants, drawing among the highest textile wages in the world, spend many millions of dollars a year on flour from prairie wheat, meat from Alberta cattle, fish from both Atlantic and Pacific coasts, homes made with the use of B.C. lumber and outfitted with furnishings and appliances from all provinces and other goods and services provided by fellow-Canadians.

FARM NOTES FROM ABROAD

U.K. Ups Cheese Make

Faced with the possibility of a surplus of milk, U.K. authorities are now making 15-month contracts for farm cheese. During the war most farm contracts were permitted only for the first milk period April to September, but beginning April 1 of this year contracts can cover 12 months provided that fluid requirements are met. Farm cheese utilized 10 million gallons of milk in 1949 but dropped during the war years and only 2 million gallons went into farm cheese in 1948. The Milk Marketing Board is endeavouring to persuade pre-war cheese producers to return to this enterprise, which will not only provide an outlet for surplus milk but will save dollars on imports of cheese.

U.S. Milk To Dutch Cows

The Netherlands Government is reported to have secured an option on an unknown quantity of skim powder produced in the U.S. which has been declared unfit for human consumption. If a trial shipment of 25 tons proves satisfactory for cattle feeding the total quantity available will be purchased with R.C.A. funds.

France Ups Meat Output

The increase in the supply of meat produced in France during 1949 has resulted in a weakening of prices to producers. The government is endeavouring to expand export outlets to strengthen domestic prices.

About 50 thousand tons of pork in various forms is programmed for export under trade agreements, and negotiations are continuing with the U.K. for the sale of 20 thousand tons of frozen pork and salt cuts and 10 thousand tons of bacon.

More Meat To Germany

Recent estimates have placed the supply of meat in West Germany at 1.45 million metric tons, some 200 thousand more than earlier estimates. Import contracts to the end of December total 50 thousand tons.

In spite of the increase in supply, however, average consumption per person in 1949 will probably not be more than half of the pre-war rate (125 pounds).

U.S. Shell Egg Support

The U.S.D.A. has announced that the dried egg purchase program will be continued through April as part of the 1949 support program. The program continues the policy of providing 25 cents to producers in the Midwest for shell eggs.

Apple Export Subsidy

On March 31 the U.S.D.A. announced that the apple export subsidy program started to end April 1, will be extended to May 1. The Department reported that 1.4 million bushels of fruit had been exported or declared for export at March 1 under the program. This quantity is less than 1 per cent of the 1949 crop.

Uruguayan Cattle

Drought conditions still continue throughout Uruguay and cattle and sheep numbers are the highest in years. Ranges are now overstocked and producers have petitioned the Government for permits to drive herds to Brazil where grazing is said to be available.

WE ARE THE CLASS OF '50

Many among us are War Veterans—some with family responsibilities not always associated with the younger graduate.

We know that a university degree will not in itself guarantee success. It must be backed up with hard work. But, whether or not we have acquired a particular knowledge of direct interest to employers in any particular industry, we still suggest our degree is a good reference, for we have at least proven ourselves to the extent of obtaining it.

Graduates are available from all types of courses this year.

If you can employ a graduate, or offer summer employment to an undergraduate, please phone or write the Executive and Professional Officer at your nearest NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE office, NOW.
